

8th & Ocean... the New Laguna Beach??

8th & Ocean first aired on MTV this month. It's a reality show created by the same person who created Laguna Beach. Is it the new Laguna Beach? Well, let's see.

The show takes place in Miami. It's about ten models, Britt, Sabrina and Kelly (the twins), Talesha, Brianna, Tracie, Teddy, Adrian, Vinci, and Sean. They all have contracts with Irene Marie Models and are trying to make it big while dealing with the competitive world of modeling. The whole show is about trying to become a successful and famous model and all the drama and hard times you go through to get there.

Irene Marie Models, started by Irene Marie (hence the name!) is one of South Beach's most popular agencies where the models can stay in a beachfront apartment complex as long as they go to castings and are successful. Being a model looks super stressful and can be extremely competitive, especially if you're twin works for the same agency. Talk about sibling rivalry. This show definitely shows the more competitive side of modeling.

Sabrina and Kelly, the Barbie dolls out of the group, are fighting for the same castings. Sabrina struggles with keeping up with Kelly, who is the stronger and more outgoing out of the two, and who basically gets every casting. Sabrina is also dealing with a big acne problem at the moment which doesn't help the situation at all. Then there's Vinci, the Latin guy, who has a bigger ego than the agency. There's also Britt, the new girl.

Now you decide: Is 8th & Ocean the new Laguna Beach? It is filled with drama; MTV wouldn't have a super-boring show. A new episode airs every Tuesday at 10:30 p.m.. Try watching episode and then you can decide.
