

Reading a Book

by Alan Ashurian

I was reading a book
When I bit its hook,
And it lured me
Into the story.

Thinking Place

by Alexa Fairbairn

Waves crash in the distance
Seagulls soar overhead
This is my thinking place

I watch the waves
Crashing against the seawall
As each wave crashes
My thoughts go with it

Everything is so confusing
I don't know what to think,
Nobody is there to help me
So I go to my thinking place

I Did It

by Jamil Murray

Inspired by "This Is Just to Say" by William Carlos Williams *

I have stolen
the homerun that you have hit and which you were probably going to take home

and show your parents

forgive me;
the ball was there glistening
in the air

Last Chance

by Claire Cajthaml

Sprinting down the long, open field, Everyone trying to catch up,
It is me versus one more: the goalie.
Dribbling the ball rolling over the grass,
I will run, kick, score, and win.
If you look back you lose.
There is no time to wait—
If you don't shoot now, when will you?
Never, ever look at the crowds,
Just kick. BAM!
